

August 2009 - Glow Mineral Make Up can be used as touch up sun protection.

We often get asked how to reapply sunscreen every two hours when make up is already on. Clients say they are good at putting on sunscreen first thing in the morning before they put on their make up, but find it hard to reapply during the day.

For these situations, we suggest reapplying your powder gloPressed base, which most of our clients use now instead of foundation. This easy-to-use powder has sun protection of SPF 18, plus it has the physical block of titanium dioxide and zinc oxide.

GloMinerals is a makeup system uniquely formulated for skincare professionals and their clients. These advanced formulations combine pharmaceutical-grade ingredients, natural high-pigment minerals and the power of antioxidants. It is actually good for the skin and does not clog the pores. It is clinical make-up designed to be safe for the skin, especially after procedures such as chemical peels. Our clients love it as their every day make-up too.

We will colour-match you to achieve the optimal look and apply it while you're in the office so you can see for yourself the wonderful natural Glow you can achieve.